

JEROME ASKS PUBLIC TO HELP IN BANK CASES

Determined to Wash All Dirty
Financial Linen This Time, He Says.

BUT CAN'T DO IT ALONE.

There's Been Much Loose
Talk, but Jury Must Have Facts, He Declares.

"Come forward now, tell what you know about crooked finance or be forever silent," will be the tenor of an appeal issued to the public by District-Attorney Jerome in the name of the special Grand Jury, which was drawn for the particular purpose of muck-raking in banking and insurance.

The announcement that an appeal to the public was to be issued was informally made by Mr. Jerome to a reporter for The Evening World to-day at the Criminal Courts Building during a lull in the Thaw murder case.

"We have not decided in just what form this appeal will be addressed to the public," said the District-Attorney, "but it will be an open invitation for leads, which will put the Grand Jury upon the right track in uncovering the alleged crimes of high finance."

"I have determined that all the dirty financial linen which has been accumulating for months shall be washed at this time, and, if necessary, the special Grand Jury will stay in session for a year to complete the task."

Mr. Jerome has delegated the work of digging out the crimes of banking and insurance to Assistant District-Attorneys Kressel and Perkins. He will exercise a personal supervision of the probe. His plans would indicate that they have been prepared with consummate care, and his manner in discussing them smacks of the wide-awake Jerome whom the people voted into office.

The District-Attorney is very eager to regain the confidence of the people. He feels that the general absence of satisfaction with his work is largely due to a failure on the part of the public to understand the difficulties which have confronted him. Mr. Jerome wishes for a more elastic penal code, and the co-operation of citizens willing to make charges and swear to them. "If good citizens will only help me I am sure that there will be satisfactory results," said Mr. Jerome. "The Grand Jury has not the latitude of a legislative investigating committee, and so it depends upon the civic righteousness of the volunteer witnesses. There has been some fire and more smoke, and a lot of loose talk, but a Grand Jury must have facts, proof, evidence. Mr. Jerome said that the appeal for his special grand jury will be made in the course of a few days."

HACKENSACK BARS "UNWRITTEN LAW"

Jury Convicts Stern, Who Punched Schaefer for Alleged Insult to Mrs. Stern.

The unwritten law has no weight at Hackensack, N. J., it seems. A jury there yesterday convicted Benjamin D. Stern, a merchant, of assault on Alfred H. Schaefer, his neighbor in Ridgedale Park. Mrs. Stern told her husband Schaefer had said as he passed her: "Oh, there's a pretty girl; I'll get a kiss," and Stern punched Schaefer.

Chief of Police Hayes and many others testified to Stern's good reputation. "How do you determine his reputation?" asked Prosecutor Koester. "Because he is not on our black list," said the Chief. "When a man stays out late of nights and cavorts around our patrolmen put him on the black list."

The Prosecutor was so certain the jury would acquit that he did not sum up.

SALESMAN LOCKED UP ON WEDDING EVE

C. M. Eaton Charged with Selling an Auto Which Didn't Belong to Him.

On the eve of his marriage, Charles Melville Eaton, a salesman living at No. 424 Greene avenue, Brooklyn, was arrested last night on a charge of grand larceny and locked up in the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station. The complainant was L. C. Jandorf, manager of an automobile exchange in West Fifty-sixth street.

Jandorf alleges that Eaton offered for sale a few days ago a touring car valued at $3,000. Jandorf bought it, he says, for $200. Subsequent investigation revealed, Jandorf says, that the car was the property of a Philadelphia firm.

MISSIONARIES ARE MENACED BY BOXERS

Rioting at Kia-hsing-fu Continues, and Catholics
Ask Protection.

PEKIN, Jan. 10.—Further reports of the rioting at Kia-hsing-fu, a town in the province of Che-kiang, declare the movement there to be anti-foreign. The Catholic missionary station has asked M. Bapet, the French Minister to China, for protection, and the Minister will take up the matter with the Foreign board to-day.

A despatch from Shanghai yesterday said that rioters at Kia-hsing-fu had burned a Protestant school and church there. Foreigners were safe, it was said, and the movement was declared to be principally anti-dynastic.

Girls' Coats and Dresses in a Great January Clearance Sale

Offering the Choicest Garments in Our Enormous
Stocks at Prices That Are Wholly Without Precedent.

"Sacrificing" is a strong word, but it adequately conveys to prospective buyers the ruthless price cutting that has become necessary to equalize stocks before the business year draws to a close. The following values attest to that fact.

6.95 For $10 and $12 Coats	GIRLS' FULL LENGTH COATS in a variety of the smart models for the miss 4 to 14 years; plain colors and mixtures; some are the mannish kind; notched collars, emblems on sleeves; others, the dressy ones with velvet and braid trimmings; half and full lined; not all sizes in all colors. Early purchasing advisable. Positively far below the manufacturer's price.
2.75 For $4.00 Coats	GIRLS' FULL LENGTH COATS: A clearance of all our Girls' Garments selling up to $6. Everyone generously made; plain colors and mixtures; storm or notched collars; some have braid trimmings; 6 to 14 years. Clearance price.
3.75 For $6 and $7 Dresses	GIRLS' DRESSES of fine serges, cheviots, also a few mixtures and plaids. The collection, being the season's clean-up, naturally the colors and sizes are incomplete. The choice is exceptional, notwithstanding, and those who buy will share in the season's most remarkable bargains. Models are the newest, introducing all the smart features in high and Dutch neck effects; many with kimono sleeves. Sizes 6 to 14 years.
